ADVANCED CLINICAL SKILLS

EVIDENCE-BASED TREATMENT PLANNING FOR DEPRESSION

By Timothy Bruce, Arthur Jongsma, Jr.

Learn everything you need to know about creating detailed, practical evidence-based treatment plans for depressed clients in this one-of-a-kind video with Drs. Timothy Bruce and Arthur Jongsma, who present an overview and accompanying demonstrations of depression's most empirically supported treatment methods.

Clinicians are overwhelmed these days by an ever-increasing number of psychological approaches and ever-stricter requirements affecting treatment planning. Knowing which of the many approaches qualify as evidence-based, or how to translate their interventions into a coherent, phase-oriented plan, can be challenging. The prevalence of depression as a clinical diagnosis, furthermore, makes standardized treatment planning a necessity for many mental health professionals, yet resources for learning to do so are hard to come by. We're excited to offer this new, in-depth video, in which two clinical experts break down and demonstrate the crucial components of an evidence-based treatment plan for depression.

After giving an overview of the DSM criteria for depression and the history of the empirically supported treatment (EST) movement, Bruce and Jongsma outline the criteria for both "well-established" and "probably efficacious" treatments, going on to describe six of the former methods in detail. With a rundown of these approaches that includes review, demonstration, and commentary, you'll learn how to compose a six-step treatment plan based on the interventions of behavioral activation, cognitive restructuring, personal and interpersonal skills training and problem-solving therapy, and interpersonal therapy. You'll also learn about other common approaches to treatment, as well as relapse prevention.

If you're looking to deepen your understanding of evidence-based treatment planning and the empirically supported treatments on which they're based, be sure to add this information-packed video to your library.

By watching this video, you will:

- Refresh your knowledge of the DSM criteria for depression and the features of a major depressive episode.
- Learn to create a six-step treatment plan based on well-established evidence-based empirically supported treatments.
- Understand the common considerations in depression relapse prevention and how to address them with your clients.

EVIDENCE-BASED TREATMENT PLANNING FOR PANIC DISORDER

By Timothy Bruce, Arthur Jongsma, Jr.

What exactly is evidence-based treatment planning, and how do you do it? Find out in this comprehensive video with Drs. Timothy Bruce and Arthur Jongsma, who present an overview, clinical vignettes, and commentary on empirically supported treatment for panic disorder.

Today's clinicians are increasingly required to submit consistent, efficient treatment plans for clients' presenting problems—but what these plans actually look like hasn't been as clearly defined. If you've been wondering what, exactly, comprises such a plan or have searched for resources on the empirically supported treatments on which these plans are based, you'll find answers in this new video with Drs. Timothy Bruce and Arthur Jongsma. Here, the two experts tell you everything you need to know about building treatment plans that pass muster with funding sources and serve as your own resource for supporting clients with panic disorder.

After giving an overview of the DSM criteria for panic disorder and the history of the empirically supported treatment (EST) movement, Bruce and Jongsma outline several ways to integrate ESTs into panic disorder treatment. With a rundown of approaches that includes review, demonstration, and commentary, you'll learn how to compose a six-step treatment plan based on the interventions of cognitive restructuring, interoceptive exposure, and exteroceptive exposure, including self-talk, progressive muscle relaxation, and collaboratively developed fear hierarchies for deeper exploration. You'll also learn about other common approaches to treatment, as well as relapse prevention.

If you're looking to deepen your understanding of evidence-based treatment planning and the empirically supported treatments on which they're based, be sure to add this information-packed video to your library.

By watching this video, you will:

- Refresh your knowledge of the DSM criteria for panic disorder and the features of panic attacks and agoraphobia.
- Understand the history of empirically supported treatments (ESTs) and those designated for panic disorder.
- Learn to create a six-step treatment plan based on well-established evidence-based ESTs.

AFRICA

CASABLANCA CALLING

By Rosa Rogers

As political conflict and change sweep the Arab world, CASABLANCA CALLING highlights a quiet social revolution under way in Morocco, where 60% of the women have never attended school. For the first time, Moroccan women are trained and employed as official Muslim leaders or morchidat. Charged with teaching an Islam based on tolerance, compassion and equality, they provide vital support and guidance to communities, especially to girls and women.

At the film's heart are Hannane, Bouchra and Karima, three morchidat assigned to mosques in different parts of Morocco. CASABLANCA CALLING follows them for a year on rounds to schools and other sites to provide advice on marriage and employment; champion education for girls and women; caution against early marriage; and help resolve personal problems. Offering unique access to a story we rarely see, this illuminating documentary demonstrates how women's empowerment through moderate Islam is transforming a nation.

Reviews

- "It is a most engaging, informative and hopeful film." - Sarah Masters, Hartley Film Foundation
- "You have made a deeply meaningful and important film about a new, enlightened generation of Muslim women leaders who will undoubtedly change the future of women in Morocco. I applaud your tenacity and artistry and take comfort in knowing your film will find homes with many festivals around the world." - Caroline Libresco, Sundance Film Festival

GOD LOVES UGANDA

Director: Roger Ross

With God Loves Uganda, Academy Award-winning filmmaker Roger Ross Williams (Music by Prudence) explores the role of the American evangelical movement in Uganda, where American missionaries have been credited with both creating school and hospitals and promoting their ideas about sexuality identity and expression. The film follows politicians, young missionaries, and evangelical leaders, including Pastor Robert Kayanja, Pastor Martin Ssempe, Pastor Scott Lively, Lou Engle, and Bishop Christopher Senyonjo (winner of the 2012 Clinton Global Citizen Award) as they attempt the radical task of eliminating "sexual sin" and converting Ugandans to evangelical Christianity.

As an American influenced bill to make homosexuality punishable by death wins widespread support, tension in Uganda mounts and an atmosphere of murderous hatred takes hold. Thanks to charismatic religious leaders and a well-financed campaign, these draconian new laws and the politicians that promote them are winning over the Ugandan public. Through interviews and hidden camera footage and with unprecedented access on the ground, the film allows American religious leaders and their young missionaries that make up the "front lines in a battle for billions of souls" to explain their positions in their own words. Shocking and enlightening, touching and horrifying, God Loves Uganda will leave you questioning how closely this brand of Christianity resembles the one you think you know and contemplating the repercussions of ideological colonialism in developing nations.

SOUND OF TORTURE

By Keren Shayo

Since 2006 when Europe closed its borders, human trafficking has burgeoned in Egypt's Sinai Desert, where Eritrean asylum seekers and refugees heading north to Israel are kidnapped, held hostage, and tortured by Bedouin smugglers demanding exorbitant ransoms for their freedom. Fleeing an oppressive military dictatorship at home, with a "shoot-to-kill" policy at the border and where only pregnant women are exempted from service, over 300,000 Eritreans have fled their homeland in North Africa. Many of these men, women and children die in Sinai's torture camps.

This powerful documentary intimately follows Swedish-Eritrean journalist Meron Estefanos and her efforts to aid the hostages and their families. From Stockholm she runs a popular online radio show, fielding calls for help from Eritrean victims and their relatives. Her activism takes her to Israel and Egypt's Sinai Desert to seek the release of a badly abused young woman held captive with her baby and to search for another who disappeared along the Egyptian-Israeli border after her ransom had been paid. Both eloquent and harrowing, SOUND OF TORTURE spotlights one of today's most underreported human rights violations and the one woman who is making it her mission to create change.

Reviews

- "A harrowing yet inspiring documentary that reveals the importance of independent media in the struggle against human rights abuses." - Int'l Film Festival and Forum on Human Rights, Geneva

- "The film presents harrowing testimony about the current situation of African refugees, a story the media so far has neglected to tell." - One World Int'l Human Rights Festival, Prague

SUPREME PRICE, THE

By Joanna Lipper

Director Joanna Lipper elegantly explores past and present as she tells the remarkable story of Hafsat Abiola, daughter of human rights heroine Kudirat Abiola, and Nigeria's President-elect M.K.O. Abiola, who won a historic vote in 1993 that promised to end years of military dictatorship. Shortly after the election M.K.O. Abiola's victory was annulled and he was arrested. While he was imprisoned, his wife Kudirat took over leadership of the pro-democracy movement, organizing strikes and rallies, winning international attention for the Nigerian struggle against human rights violations perpetrated by the military dictatorship. Because of this work, she too became a target and was assassinated in 1996. In this riveting political thriller, the Abiola family's intimate story unfolds against the epic backdrop of Nigeria's evolution from independence in 1960 - through the Biafra War, subsequent military dictatorships and the tumultuous transition to civilian rule - through present day as Hafsat continues to face the challenge of transforming a corrupt culture of governance into a democracy capable of serving Nigeria's most marginalized population: women.

LIVING THINKERS: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF BLACK WOMEN IN THE IVORY TOWER

By Roxana Walker-Canton

LIVING THINKERS: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF BLACK WOMEN IN THE IVORY TOWER examines the intersection of race, class and gender for Black women professors and administrators working in U.S. colleges and universities today. Through their diverse narratives, from girlhood to the present, Black women from different disciplines share experiences that have shaped them, including segregated schooling as children, and the trials, disappointments and triumphs encountered in Academia. Though more than 100 years have passed since the doors to higher education opened for Black women, their numbers as faculty members are woefully low and for many still, the image of Black women as intellectuals is incomprehensible. And while overtly expressed racism, sexism and discrimination have declined, their presence is often still often unacknowledged. Through frank and sometimes humorous conversations, this documentary interrogates notions of education for girls and women and the stereotypes and traditions that affect the status of Black women both in and out of the Academy. A perfect companion film for any classroom discussion on the intersection of racism, sexism and/or feminism.

REFLECTIONS UNHEARD: BLACK WOMEN IN CIVIL RIGHTS

By Nevline Nnaji

Where do black women activists fit into the epochal struggles for equality and liberation during the 1960s and 70s? This feature-length documentary unearths the story of black women's political marginalization—between the male-dominated Black Power movement and second wave feminism, which was largely white and middle class—showing how each failed to recognize black women's overlapping racial and gender identities.

Archival footage and in-depth interviews with former members of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), SNCC's Black Women's Liberation Committee, the Black Panther Party, Third World Women's Alliance, and the National Black Women's Feminist Organization reveal how black women mobilized, fought for recognition, and raised awareness of how sexism and class issues affected women of color within and outside The Black Power Movement and mainstream feminism. Prominently featured activists include Frances Beale, Angela Davis, Kola Boof, Nikki Giovanni, Rosemary Mealy, Judy Richardson, Gwendolyn Simmons, Deborah Singletary, and Eugenia Wiltshire. Required viewing for Women's Studies,

African American Studies, and students of the Civil Rights Movement.

Reviews

- "Nnaji's film is a compelling and timely portrayal of the discrimination that black feminists endured during the American civil rights struggle..." - Feminist Perspektiv
- "As many young Black women begin to explore feminist works by noted women of color, this film is a valuable and important narrative that's been added to the discourse." - Tiff Jones, Coffee Rhetoric
- "The ways in which it touches upon the experiences of black women in relation to the masculinist Black Power movement as well as the emerging white middle-class feminist movement, are brilliant and incisive." - Elaine Castill, Author

AFRICAN AMERICAN CULTURE

HOMEGOINGS

Director: Christine Turner

Homegoings takes an up-close look at the rarely seen world of undertaking in the black community, where funeral rites draw on a rich palette of tradition, history and celebration. It reveals the special status of undertakers in the community; borne out of their permanence, their economic stability, and the necessities of the segregation period. It film paints a portrait of the dearly departed, their grieving families and a man who sends loved ones "home."

Homegoings examines how the traditions are being forced to adapt to our lean economic times, as families opt for cremation, instead of the more costly burials and as smaller "Mom and Pop" funeral homes close.

Homegoings will resonate with those familiar with the traditions as well as move and inform the uninitiated who want to understand how specific cultures deal with death and mourning. It will be a compelling resource for classes in African American Studies, Psychology, Anthropology, Sociology, Social Work, and the health professions.

Reviews

- "Homegoings portrays the role of death in African American life with compassion and dignity. The film eloquently depicts how African Americans use powerful traditions as well as contemporary rituals to find meaning and inspiration in the face of loss." - Dr. Suzanne E. Smith author of To Serve the Living: Funeral Directors and the African American Way of Death

- "A poetically crafted exploration... poignant, inspirational and unexpectedly uplifting." - Filmmaker Magazine
- "Homegoings is a thoughtful and enlightening exploration of the cultural history and meaning of these traditions. An exquisitely tender documentary. Fascinating and assured." - Washington Post

AFRICAN AMERICAN PERSPECTIVES

NEW BLACK, THE: LGBT RIGHTS AND AFRICAN AMERICAN COMMUNITIES

Director: Yoruba Richen

This award-winning documentary boldly examines the controversial and challenging issues facing African American communities on gay civil rights, campaigns for/against marriage equality and in particular the role of faith institutions. The film makes a compelling case that the fight for LGBT rights in Black communities is an extension of the Black Freedom Struggle.

Director Yoruba Richen was inspired to make the film in response to erroneous reports that African American voters caused the passage of an anti-same sex marriage initiative in the 2008 California election. The film looks at other pro and anti-gay rights campaigns over the years and how right-wing groups have used the issue to make inroads in to black communities. It culminates in the 2012 electoral efforts to preserve - or reverse - marriage equality in Maryland, a state with a substantial African American population.

The film will be useful for teachers of various subjects and departments such as African American Studies, Gender Studies, Sociology, Religion and Political Science as well as those working in Student Services.

Reviews

- "Far from 'airing dirty laundry', The New Black brings varying viewpoints together in honest and respectful dialogue. It challenges and expands our ideas about blackness and black struggle in 21st century America. An invaluable teaching tool with which to engage students in difficult conversations about race, sexuality, religion and politics." - Leigh Raiford, African American Studies, University of California, Berkeley

- "Provocative and brilliant... Moves the discussion from the simplistic notion that Black Christian Faith necessarily opposes marriage equality for same-gendered couples and that Civil Rights is only about race." - The Rev. Dr. Horace L. Griffin, Pacific School of Religion
- "By showing how one community struggles to reconcile its religious convictions with its love for its LGBT brothers and sisters, The New Black assails the myth that African Americans are more homophobic than other groups. Not since Marlon Riggs' Black is, Black Ain't have I been so riveted by a documentary." - E. Patrick Johnson, Northwestern University

SHEER GOOD FORTUNE - CELEBRATING TONI MORRISON

By Joanne V. Gabbin; Judith McCray

The luminaries of contemporary African American letters - poets, novelists, critics and actors - gathered in October, 2012 to pay tribute to Toni Morrison, read from her writings and share what it has meant to their lives and work.

Sheer Good Fortune documents a moving moment in the evolution of African Americans' literary identity. In addition to the highlights of the tribute ceremony, the video contains 33 minutes of enrichment commentary by the participants which can help educators and students explore various aspects of Morrison's work in greater depth, including the value of "Black English," historical revisionism, African American spirituality, building community through literature, transgressing gender taboos and teaching Morrison's novels in multicultural settings.

- "The genius of Toni Morrison can only be absorbed like the moonlight on a clear lake; down and down the light flows until only we are floating on a wave of emotion and intellect from which we emerge with newer understanding of words, of history, of the future. The video Sheer Good Fortune is the boat we sail unto that distant Morrison shore." - Nikki Giovanni

AMERICAN STUDIES

ANITA

Director: Freida Mock

An entire country watched transfixed as a poised, beautiful African-American woman in a blue dress sat before a Senate committee of 14 white men and with a clear, unwavering voice recounted the repeated acts of sexual harassment she had endured while working with U.S. Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas. That October day in 1991 Anita Hill, a bookish law professor from Oklahoma, was thrust onto the world stage and instantly became a celebrated, hated, venerated, and divisive figure. She has become an American icon, empowering millions of women and men around the world to stand up for equality and justice.

Against a backdrop of sex, politics, and race, ANITA reveals the intimate story of a woman who spoke truth to power. Directed by Academy Award-winning filmmaker Freida Mock, the film is both a celebration of Anita Hill's legacy and a rare glimpse into her private life with friends and family, many of whom were by her side that fateful day 22 years ago. Anita Hill courageously speaks openly and intimately for the first time about her experiences that led her to testify before the Senate and the obstacles she faced in simply telling the truth. Anita Hill's graphic testimony was a turning point for gender equality in the U.S. and ignited a political firestorm about sexual misconduct and power in the workplace that resonates still today.

Reviews

- "ANITA is an important historical document about an event that prompted a larger cultural conversation about sexual harassment. But, perhaps more important, it conveys Ms. Hill's journey from an accuser alone to an activist who shares with, and listens to, others." - The New York Times
- "This intelligent and comprehensive documentary not only conveys the genuine nature of Hill herself, but also recreates the national sensibility of the time, an era when sexual harassment in the workplace was not yet a national concern... [a] thoughtful and quietly powerful film."- The Hollywood Reporter
- "A true hero of our time!" - Indiewire's Women and Hollywood

CASTING BY

Director: Tom Donahue

Casting By places the spotlight on one of filmmaking's unsung heroes – casting director Marion Dougherty – and takes us on a journey through 50 years of Hollywood history from an entirely new perspective. Relying on her exquisite taste and gut instincts, Dougherty helped usher in the 'New Hollywood' with movies like Midnight Cowboy, The Graduate, Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid and Bonnie and Clyde, and in the process launched the careers of iconic actors including James Dean, Robert Duvall, Warren Beatty, Christopher Plummer, Glenn Close, John Travolta, Jeff Bridges, Bette Midler and countless others. Breaking away from tradition studio typecasting, Dougherty started the first independent casting agency and quickly became a favorite for directors, producers, and studio chiefs. Over the next 35 years, Dougherty became an indispensable ally to some of the best filmmakers in Hollywood.

In Tom Donahue's entertaining and illuminated documentary, directors and actors including Martin Scorsese, Woody Allen, Clint Eastwood, Glenn Close, Robert Duvall, Jeff Bridges, Al Pacino, Robert De Niro, Diane Lane, Jon Voight, Bette Midler and John Travolta reveal insights into their early careers and share fond memories of Dougherty, all interwoven with rarely seen clips as well as scenes from classic films The Sting, Goodfellas, Annie Hall, The Great Escape and West Side Story.

SMILING THROUGH THE APOCALYPSE

Director: Tom Hayes

Esquire magazine was a galvanizing force in American culture from the early 1960s through the early '70s. Forging its pop-cultural capital on the basis of provocative cover art, intellectual audacity and riveting articles by the preeminent and cutting edge writers of the time, the magazine captured the zeitgeist of America in the crucible of the '60s.

The chief architect of this print revolution was Harold Hayes, a brilliant and tenacious editor who granted Esquire's contributors unprecedented journalistic freedom. Hayes' fearless instincts provided a haven for writers like Gore Vidal, Tom Wolfe, Gay Talese, Nora Ephron, William F. Buckley and Norman Mailer, and nurtured the iconoclastic talents of art director George Lois. By making it possible for writers and artists to bring novelistic techniques into reportage Hayes fostered what became known as "New Journalism".

The indelible cultural contributions captured in this enthralling documentary by his son, Tom Hayes, provide a vivid context for nothing less than the rebirth of American aesthetics. Featuring interviews with Robert Benton, Candice Bergen, Peter Bogdanovich, Brock Brower, Graydon Carter, Lee Eisenberg, Harlan Ellison, Nora Ephron, Robert Frank, Hugh Hefner, Tom Meehan, Frank Rich, Bob Rirkind, Gay Talese, Gore Vidal, Ed Wilson, Tom Wolfe and many others.

ANGER MANAGEMENT

ANGER MANAGEMENT IN COUNSELING AND PSYCHOTHERAPY

By Raymond Chip Tafrate, Howard Kassino

Watch anger experts Howard Kassino and Chip Tafrate demystify the challenging work of anger management in this indispensable video! Whatever your professional setting, you'll breathe easier with this practical, empirically validated showcase of exercises, live sessions, and tools to strengthen your practice.

Angry clients present complexities that challenge new and seasoned clinicians alike. Between the need to establish a strong working alliance with mandated clients, increase motivation in the face of therapeutic ambivalence, gain agreement on anger triggers, and navigate the mental terrain of clients who minimize their own role in their anger, therapists require approaches tailored to a condition much less understood than formal clinical disorders (such as anxiety or depression). In this video, two anger experts—Drs. Howard Kassino and Chip Tafrate—offer a series of live case examples grounded in their research-based anger episode model, designed to support both clients and clinicians in understanding the variations of the anger experience.

Kassino and Tafrate treat no less than seven different clients in this comprehensive video, with each vignette tied to a particular technique. Key concepts such as assessment, verbal reinforcement, interviewing, identifying triggers, relaxation techniques, and forgiveness are demonstrated, with introductory commentary and instructive captioning.

You'll find valuable takeaways in each section—and prepare to be moved by an interview between Tafrate and Walt, a man who found healing through the long process of forgiving—even to the point of befriending—his son's murderer. Less radical yet no less important are Kassino's before-and-after sessions with Ian (the latter a one year follow-up), a young adult seeking help after a difficult breakup. The two clinicians balance inner change work with interventions to support letting go, making for a refreshing, contemporary take on anger control.

This information-packed video demystifies not just anger treatment, but the anger experience itself. Give yourself the opportunity to learn from these two experts by adding this resource to your library today.

By watching this video, you will:

- Understand the clinical variations of the anger experience, including its emotional, cognitive, and somatic elements.
- Learn strategies to assess and increase motivation with ambivalent clients.
- Identify a range of techniques to help clients reduce or manage their anger.

EVIDENCE-BASED TREATMENT PLANNING FOR ANGER CONTROL PROBLEMS

By Timothy Bruce, Arthur Jongsma, Jr.

How well do you understand the interventions, goals, and documentation requirements of anger management? Hone your skills with this video from Drs. Tim Bruce and Art Jongsma, who take you through the treatment-planning process with detailed overviews, clinical considerations, and case vignettes with clients needing help with anger management.

Today's clinicians are increasingly required to submit consistent, efficient treatment plans for clients' presenting problems—but what these plans actually look like hasn't been as clearly defined. If you've been wondering what, exactly, comprises such a plan or have searched for resources on the empirically supported treatments on which these plans are based, you'll find answers in this new video with Drs. Timothy Bruce and Arthur Jongsma. Here, the two experts tell you everything you need to know about building treatment plans that pass muster with funding sources and serve as a valuable resource for supporting clients with anger control problems.

Bruce and Jongsma outline several ways to integrate empirically supported treatments (ESTs) into anger control treatment, including a brief history of standout approaches. They offer a comprehensive overview of the clinically significant features of anger, and you'll learn to create a six-step treatment plan based on proven interventions. Clinical vignettes feature relaxation training, psychoeducation, cognitive restructuring, skills training (including assertive communication), and live practice. In addition to all this, you'll learn about other common approaches to treatment, as well as relapse prevention.

If you're looking to deepen your understanding of evidence-based treatment planning and the empirically supported interventions that are essential to include, you won't want to miss this information-packed video.

By watching this video, you will:

- Understand the clinically significant features of anger that correlate to particular DSM diagnoses.
- Learn to build a six-step treatment plan based on evidence-based ESTs.
- Gain tools for integrating empirically informed interventions into effective anger control treatment.

ANTHROPOLOGY

GALAPAGOS AFFAIR, THE: SATAN CAME TO EDEN

By Dayna Goldfine, Dan Geller

Darwin meets Hitchcock in this true-crime tale of paradise found and lost. The Galapagos Affair: Satan Came To Eden is a fascinating documentary portrait of a 1930s murder mystery as strange and alluring as the famous archipelago itself. Fleeing conventional society, a Berlin doctor and his mistress start a new life on uninhabited Floreana Island. But after the international press sensationalizes the exploits of the Galapagos' "Adam and Eve", others flock there—including a self-styled Swiss Family Robinson and a gun-toting Viennese Baroness and her two lovers. Clashing personalities are aggravated by the island community's lusty free-love ethos, and when some of the islanders disappear, suspicions of murder hang in the air leaving an unsolved mystery which remains the subject of local lore today.

EVIDENCE-BASED TREATMENT PLANNING FOR PANIC DISORDER

By Timothy Bruce, Arthur Jongsma, Jr.

What exactly is evidence-based treatment planning, and how do you do it? Find out in this comprehensive video with Drs. Timothy Bruce and Arthur Jongsma, who present an overview, clinical vignettes, and commentary on empirically supported treatment for panic disorder.

Today's clinicians are increasingly required to submit consistent, efficient treatment plans for clients' presenting problems—but what these plans actually look like hasn't been as clearly defined. If you've been wondering what, exactly, comprises such a plan or have searched for resources on the empirically supported treatments on which these plans are based, you'll find answers in this new video with Drs. Timothy Bruce and Arthur Jongsma. Here, the two experts tell you everything you need to know about building treatment plans that pass muster with funding sources and serve as your own resource for supporting clients with panic disorder.

After giving an overview of the DSM criteria for panic disorder and the history of the empirically supported treatment (EST) movement, Bruce and Jongsma outline several ways to integrate ESTs into panic disorder treatment. With a rundown of approaches that includes review, demonstration, and commentary, you'll learn how to compose a six-step treatment plan based on the interventions of cognitive restructuring, interoceptive exposure, and exteroceptive exposure, including self-talk, progressive muscle relaxation, and collaboratively developed fear hierarchies for deeper exploration. You'll also learn about other common approaches to treatment, as well as relapse prevention.

If you're looking to deepen your understanding of evidence-based treatment planning and the empirically supported treatments on which they're based, be sure to add this information-packed video to your library.

By watching this video, you will:

- Refresh your knowledge of the DSM criteria for panic disorder and the features of panic attacks and agoraphobia.
- Understand the history of empirically supported treatments (ESTs) and those designated for panic disorder.

- Learn to create a six-step treatment plan based on well-established evidence-based ESTs.

ART THERAPY

EMPOWERING ADULTS WITH DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES: A CREATIVE ARTS THERAPIES APPROACH

By Stephen Snow

Gain new tools for helping adults with developmental disabilities using creative arts therapies within Dr. Snow's unique ethnodramatherapy model.

Dr. Stephen Snow uses the term "emancipatory potential" to describe the impact of a unique therapeutic model on these actors with disabilities. As you watch the group develop, rehearse, and ultimately present their life histories onstage, you'll learn how a model known as ethnodramatherapy builds on traditional drama and arts therapies techniques, along with Mienczakowski's ethnodrama method, to bring expression to the challenges marginalized populations experience on a daily basis.

In this video, you'll find educational commentary, personal interviews, and an epilogue by Snow, including ways to incorporate expressive arts, poetry, music, and dance into work with adults with developmental disabilities. You'll be moved by the humorous, touching, and at times disturbing stories of Snow's group, presented by the actors themselves. In addition, you'll hear feedback from their receptive audiences, including young students, that illustrate both the show's effectiveness and the attitudinal shifts that can occur as a result of seeing such a performance.

By watching this video, you will:

- Understand the objectives and methodology of the ethnodramatherapy approach.
- Identify ways to incorporate expressive and performance art into work with adults with developmental disabilities.
- Learn tools for measuring the therapeutic impact of an ethnodramatherapy performance featuring marginalized populations.

BEHAVIORAL HEALTH COUNSELING

SPECIFIC TREATMENTS FOR SPECIFIC POPULATIONS: PARENTS OF CHILDREN WITH AUTISM SPECTRUM DISORDER

With V. Mark Durand, PhD

In Parents of Children With Autism Spectrum Disorder, V. Mark Durand demonstrates his positive parenting approach to working with mothers and fathers of children who have been diagnosed with autism spectrum disorder (ASD).

ASD is an increasingly common diagnosis among children, and symptoms such as repetitive behaviors and communication deficiencies can challenge parents, often affecting their personal relationships and daily activities. The evidence-based approach demonstrated in this video focuses on increasing a sense of hope in these parents.

In this video, Dr. Durand works with a single-mother of an 8-year old boy with autism spectrum disorder. He helps her see that how she thinks about herself and her son impacts on her relationship with him at home. He then helps her focus on seeing the improvements she has seen in her son's behavior over time, and encourages her to take credit for these positive changes.

BIOGRAPHY

LADONNA HARRIS: INDIAN 101

By Julianna Brannum

LADONNA HARRIS: INDIAN 101 from Comanche filmmaker Julianna Brannum, chronicles the life of Comanche activist and national civil rights leader LaDonna Harris and the role that she has played in Native and mainstream America history since the 1960s. In this new verite style documentary, Brannum, the great niece of Harris, celebrates her life and the personal struggles that led her to become a voice for Native people and her contemporary work to strengthen and rebuild indigenous communities and train emerging Native leaders around the world.

Harris's activism began in Oklahoma, fighting segregation and assisting grassroots Native and women's groups. In Washington LaDonna introduced landmark programs and legislation returning territory to tribes, improving education and healthcare for Native Americans, ending job discrimination against women, and targeting other pressing issues of the time. For over three decades, "Indian 101," her course for legislators, combatted ignorance about America's most marginalized population. Using interviews, archival footage and photographs, this film justly celebrates one of the most important women leaders in Native American and U.S. history.

CAREERS

CAN I MAKE IT ON MY OWN? VOLUME 2

In this new two-part DVD series, eight young adults tell the stories of how they are trying to make it on their own. No scripts, no actors, just real life. In Part 1 your students will meet Anna, Javier, Roger and Amanda. In Part 2 they will meet Kiran, Greg, Marlene and Ryan.

The lessons to be learned from these stories are too numerous to list. In some cases, they illustrate the perils and heartache of foolish decisions and just plain bad luck. In others, they highlight what good judgment, hard work and determination can accomplish. But in each case they offer lessons that everyone should learn shared by young adults your students can relate to.

CHILDREN AND ADOLESCENTS

CHILDREN AND ADOLESCENTS: COGNITIVE-BEHAVIORAL GROUP PLAY INTERVENTIONS

With Linda A. Reddy, PhD

In this video, Dr. Linda A. Reddy demonstrates evidence-based approaches to implementing cognitive-behavioral group play interventions with children who are 4–10 years old. Often times, children with neurocognitive and behavioral issues such as ADHD, have trouble interacting with other children and adults.

The cognitive-behavioral approach shown here uses group play interventions to help children develop prosocial skills such as sharing, asking for and offering help. Dr. Reddy's group-play interventions include a multimodal approach that integrates cognitive – behavioral interventions and skill-intensive opportunities for learning through teaching modalities, as well as structured group therapy interventions.

In this video, Dr. Reddy demonstrates cognitive-behavioral group play interventions with four elementary-aged school children through several exercises in developmentally appropriate games.

SPECIFIC TREATMENTS FOR SPECIFIC POPULATIONS: PARENTS OF CHILDREN WITH AUTISM SPECTRUM DISORDER

With V. Mark Durand, PhD

In Parents of Children With Autism Spectrum Disorder, V. Mark Durand

demonstrates his positive parenting approach to working with mothers and fathers of children who have been diagnosed with autism spectrum disorder (ASD).

ASD is an increasingly common diagnosis among children, and symptoms such as repetitive behaviors and communication deficiencies can challenge parents, often affecting their personal relationships and daily activities. The evidence-based approach demonstrated in this video focuses on increasing a sense of hope in these parents.

In this video, Dr. Durand works with a single-mother of an 8-year old boy with autism spectrum disorder. He helps her see that how she thinks about herself and her son impacts on her relationship with him at home. He then helps her focus on seeing the improvements she has seen in her son's behavior over time, and encourages her to take credit for these positive changes.

COGNITIVE-BEHAVIORAL THERAPY

CHILDREN AND ADOLESCENTS: COGNITIVE-BEHAVIORAL GROUP PLAY INTERVENTIONS

With Linda A. Reddy, PhD

In this video, Dr. Linda A. Reddy demonstrates evidence-based approaches to implementing cognitive-behavioral group play interventions with children who are 4–10 years old. Often times, children with neurocognitive and behavioral issues such as ADHD, have trouble interacting with other children and adults.

The cognitive-behavioral approach shown here uses group play interventions to help children develop prosocial skills such as sharing, asking for and offering help. Dr. Reddy's group-play interventions include a multimodal approach that integrates cognitive – behavioral interventions and skill-intensive opportunities for learning through teaching modalities, as well as structured group therapy interventions.

CRIME/THRILLERS

LET THE FIRE BURN

By Jason Osder

In the astonishingly gripping Let the Fire Burn, director Jason Osder has crafted that rarest of cinematic objects: a found-footage film that unfurls with the tension of a great thriller. On May 13, 1985, a longtime feud between the city of Philadelphia and controversial radical urban group MOVE came to a deadly climax. By order of local authorities, police dropped military-grade explosives onto a MOVE-occupied rowhouse. TV cameras captured the conflagration that quickly escalated—and resulted in the tragic deaths of eleven people (including five children) and the destruction of 61 homes. It was only later discovered that authorities decided to "...let the fire burn." Using only archival news coverage and interviews, first-time filmmaker Osder has brought to life one of the most tumultuous and largely forgotten clashes between government and citizens in modern American history.

CULTURAL DIVERSITY

EMPOWERING ADULTS WITH DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES: A CREATIVE ARTS THERAPIES APPROACH

By Stephen Snow

Gain new tools for helping adults with developmental disabilities using creative arts therapies within Dr. Snow's unique ethnodramatherapy model.

Dr. Stephen Snow uses the term "emancipatory potential" to describe the impact of a unique therapeutic model on these actors with disabilities. As you watch the group develop, rehearse, and ultimately present their life histories onstage, you'll learn how a model known as ethnodramatherapy builds on traditional drama and arts therapies techniques, along with Mienczakowski's ethnodrama method, to bring expression to the challenges marginalized populations experience on a daily basis.

In this video, you'll find educational commentary, personal interviews, and an epilogue by Snow, including ways to incorporate expressive arts, poetry, music, and dance into work with adults with developmental disabilities. You'll be moved by the humorous, touching, and at times disturbing stories of Snow's group, presented by the actors themselves. In addition, you'll hear feedback from their receptive audiences, including young students, that illustrate both the show's effectiveness and the attitudinal shifts that can occur as a result of seeing such a performance.

By watching this video, you will:

- Understand the objectives and methodology of the ethnodramatherapy approach.
- Identify ways to incorporate expressive and performance art into work with adults with developmental disabilities.
- Learn tools for measuring the therapeutic impact of an ethnodramatherapy performance featuring marginalized populations.

CULTURAL STUDIES

GOD LOVES UGANDA

Director: Roger Ross

With God Loves Uganda, Academy Award-winning filmmaker Roger Ross Williams (Music by Prudence) explores the role of the American evangelical movement in Uganda, where American missionaries have been credited with both creating school and hospitals and promoting their ideas about sexuality identity and expression. The film follows politicians, young missionaries, and evangelical leaders, including Pastor Robert Kayanja, Pastor Martin Ssempe, Pastor Scott Lively, Lou Engle, and Bishop Christopher Senyonjo (winner of the 2012 Clinton Global Citizen Award) as they attempt the radical task of eliminating "sexual sin" and converting Ugandans to evangelical Christianity.

As an American influenced bill to make homosexuality punishable by death wins widespread support, tension in Uganda mounts and an atmosphere of murderous hatred takes hold. Thanks to charismatic religious leaders and a well-financed campaign, these draconian new laws and the politicians that promote them are winning over the Ugandan public.

Through interviews and hidden camera footage and with unprecedented access on the ground, the film allows American religious leaders and their young missionaries that make up the "front lines in a battle for billions of souls" to explain their positions in their own words. Shocking and enlightening, touching and horrifying, God Loves Uganda will leave you questioning how closely this brand of Christianity resembles the one you think you know and contemplating the repercussions of ideological colonialism in developing nations.

DEPRESSION

EVIDENCE-BASED TREATMENT PLANNING FOR DEPRESSION

By Timothy Bruce, Arthur Jongsma, Jr.

Learn everything you need to know about creating detailed, practical evidence-based treatment plans for depressed clients in this one-of-a-kind video with Drs. Timothy Bruce and Arthur Jongsma, who present an overview and accompanying demonstrations of depression's most empirically supported treatment methods.

Clinicians are overwhelmed these days by an ever-increasing number of psychological approaches and ever-stricter requirements affecting treatment planning. Knowing which of the many approaches qualify as evidence-based, or how to translate their interventions into a coherent, phase-oriented plan, can be challenging. The prevalence of depression as a clinical diagnosis, furthermore, makes standardized treatment planning a necessity for many mental health professionals, yet resources for learning to do so are hard to come by. We're excited to offer this new, in-depth video, in which two clinical experts break down and demonstrate the crucial components of an evidence-based treatment plan for depression.

After giving an overview of the DSM criteria for depression and the history of the empirically supported treatment (EST) movement, Bruce and Jongsma outline the criteria for both "well-established" and "probably efficacious" treatments, going on to describe six of the former methods in detail. With a rundown of these approaches that includes review, demonstration, and commentary, you'll learn how to compose a six-step treatment plan based on the interventions of behavioral activation, cognitive restructuring, personal and interpersonal skills training and problem-solving therapy, and interpersonal therapy. You'll also learn about other common approaches to treatment, as well as relapse prevention.

If you're looking to deepen your understanding of evidence-based treatment planning and the empirically supported treatments on which they're based, be sure to add this information-packed video to your library.

By watching this video, you will:

- Refresh your knowledge of the DSM criteria for depression and the features of a major depressive episode.
- Learn to create a six-step treatment plan based on well-established evidence-based empirically supported treatments.
- Understand the common considerations in depression relapse prevention and how to address them with your clients.

DOCUMENTARY

ARRIBES: EVERYTHING ELSE IS NOISE

Directed, filmed and edited by Zev Robinson

This documentary is a portrait of the lives of the inhabitants of Arribes, an isolated region of Spain, where self-sufficiency is a way of life. Producing 80-90% of what they eat and recycling everything, they show us a powerful, living example of a healthy and sustainable lifestyle and environment we can all learn from.

Reviews

- "What is particularly interesting about his work, is that Zev is using the high tech tools presented to him: HD cameras, social media, digital video, planes, trains and smartphones, to present a slower, older, quieter world: where people take the necessary time to produce essentials such as food and wine; where century's old cultural heritage is preserved." - Gwendolyn Alston, MocaMediaTV
- "The film provokes a reflection about human being's ability to live in a way less damaging to the environment. Words like sustainability, self-sufficiency, ecology, tradition, local food are used in the documentary, but are very present in the Arribes area although without anyone using them." - Jose Manuel Blanco, El Mundo
- "Zev is known for films that feel like moving paintings, with stories that ebb and flow into the highly contrasted light and shadow. They are eye-catching, thoughtful and attack subjects that are near and dear to his heart. His most recent work on the very small Spanish wine region of Arribes appears to be as breathtaking and thought-provoking as his previous work." - Ryan Opaz, Catavino

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

ANGER MANAGEMENT IN COUNSELING AND PSYCHOTHERAPY

By Raymond Chip Tafrate, Howard Kassino

Watch anger experts Howard Kassino and Chip Tafrate demystify the challenging work of anger management in this indispensable video! Whatever your professional setting, you'll breathe easier with this practical, empirically validated showcase of exercises, live sessions, and tools to strengthen your practice.

Angry clients present complexities that challenge new and seasoned clinicians alike. Between the need to establish a strong working alliance with mandated clients, increase motivation in the face of therapeutic ambivalence, gain agreement on anger triggers, and navigate the mental terrain of clients who minimize their own role in their anger, therapists require approaches tailored to a condition much less understood than formal clinical disorders (such as anxiety or depression). In this video, two anger experts—Drs. Howard Kassinove and Chip Tafrate—offer a series of live case examples grounded in their research-based anger episode model, designed to support both clients and clinicians in understanding the variations of the anger experience.

Kassinove and Tafrate treat no less than seven different clients in this comprehensive video, with each vignette tied to a particular technique. Key concepts such as assessment, verbal reinforcement, interviewing, identifying triggers, relaxation techniques, and forgiveness are demonstrated, with introductory commentary and instructive captioning.

You'll find valuable takeaways in each section—and prepare to be moved by an interview between Tafrate and Walt, a man who found healing through the long process of forgiving—even to the point of befriending—his son's murderer. Less radical yet no less important are Kassinove's before-and-after sessions with Ian (the latter a one year follow-up), a young adult seeking help after a difficult breakup. The two clinicians balance inner change work with interventions to support letting go, making for a refreshing, contemporary take on anger control.

This information-packed video demystifies not just anger treatment, but the anger experience itself. Give yourself the opportunity to learn from these two experts by adding this resource to your library today.

By watching this video, you will:

- Understand the clinical variations of the anger experience, including its emotional, cognitive, and somatic elements.
- Learn strategies to assess and increase motivation with ambivalent clients.
- Identify a range of techniques to help clients reduce or manage their anger.

EVIDENCE-BASED TREATMENT PLANNING FOR ANGER CONTROL PROBLEMS

By Timothy Bruce, Arthur Jongsma, Jr.

How well do you understand the interventions, goals, and documentation requirements of anger management? Hone your skills with this video from Drs.

Tim Bruce and Art Jongsma, who take you through the treatment-planning process with detailed overviews, clinical considerations, and case vignettes with clients needing help with anger management.

Today's clinicians are increasingly required to submit consistent, efficient treatment plans for clients' presenting problems—but what these plans actually look like hasn't been as clearly defined. If you've been wondering what, exactly, comprises such a plan or have searched for resources on the empirically supported treatments on which these plans are based, you'll find answers in this new video with Drs. Timothy Bruce and Arthur Jongsma. Here, the two experts tell you everything you need to know about building treatment plans that pass muster with funding sources and serve as a valuable resource for supporting clients with anger control problems.

Bruce and Jongsma outline several ways to integrate empirically supported treatments (ESTs) into anger control treatment, including a brief history of standout approaches. They offer a comprehensive overview of the clinically significant features of anger, and you'll learn to create a six-step treatment plan based on proven interventions. Clinical vignettes feature relaxation training, psychoeducation, cognitive restructuring, skills training (including assertive communication), and live practice. In addition to all this, you'll learn about other common approaches to treatment, as well as relapse prevention.

If you're looking to deepen your understanding of evidence-based treatment planning and the empirically supported interventions that are essential to include, you won't want to miss this information-packed video.

By watching this video, you will:

- Understand the clinically significant features of anger that correlate to particular DSM diagnoses.
- Learn to build a six-step treatment plan based on evidence-based ESTs.
- Gain tools for integrating empirically informed interventions into effective anger control treatment.

EASTERN EUROPE PERVERT'S GUIDE TO IDEOLOGY, THE

By Sophie Fiennes

Cultural theorist superstar Slavoj Žižek re-teams with director Sophie Fiennes (The Pervert's Guide to Cinema) for another wildly entertaining romp through the crossroads of cinema and philosophy. With infectious zeal and a voracious appetite for popular culture, Žižek literally goes inside some truly epochal movies, all the better to explore and expose how they reinforce prevailing ideologies. As the ideology that undergirds our cinematic fantasies is revealed, striking associations emerge: What hidden Catholic teachings lurk at the heart of The Sound of Music? What are the fascist political dimensions of Jaws? Taxi Driver, Zabriske Point, The Searchers, The Dark Knight, John Carpenter's They Live ("one of the forgotten masterpieces of the Hollywood Left"), Titanic, Kinder Eggs, verite news footage, Beethoven's "Ode to Joy" and propaganda epics from Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia all inform Žižek's stimulating, provocative and often hilarious psychoanalytic-cinematic rant.

SIX DAYS: THREE ACTIVISTS, THREE WARS, ONE DREAM

By Nikolina Gillgren, Johan Sandstrom

This inspiring documentary which follows three brave human rights defenders in Liberia, Abkhazia, Georgia and Iraq over six days, gives insight into the everyday struggle to improve the situation of women worldwide. SIX DAYS shines a necessary light on some of the most urgent and important human rights issues facing women today: girls education, honor killings, bride kidnappings and women's health issues.

Giving refuge and voice to women beaten, burned and threatened with death by their families, journalist Lanja, fearlessly challenges honor killings and domestic violence in Iraq's Kurdish region. Nelly runs a cooperative and shelter in Monrovia, Liberia's slums so that impoverished women can learn to read and earn money for their families. And in the breakaway republic of Abkhazia, Georgia, Maia, director of a women's health group fighting for women's sexual rights, brings medical care to women and girls in remote Caucasus villages while battling "bride kidnappings" and other archaic customs that lead to forced marriage.

As it follows these three remarkable women, thousands of miles apart, SIX DAYS bears witness to their unwavering, shared commitment to women's education, empowerment and dreams of a better life. An important film for those who wish to understand the challenges facing women in developing countries around the world and how feminism continues to help improve women's lives.

LIVING THINKERS: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF BLACK WOMEN IN THE IVORY TOWER

By Roxana Walker-Canton

LIVING THINKERS: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF BLACK WOMEN IN THE IVORY TOWER examines the intersection of race, class and gender for Black women professors and administrators working in U.S. colleges and universities today. Through their diverse narratives, from girlhood to the present, Black women from different disciplines share experiences that have shaped them, including segregated schooling as children, and the trials, disappointments and triumphs encountered in Academia. Though more than 100 years have passed since the doors to higher education opened for Black women, their numbers as faculty members are woefully low and for many still, the image of Black women as intellectuals is incomprehensible. And while overtly expressed racism, sexism and discrimination have declined, their presence is often still often unacknowledged. Through frank and sometimes humorous conversations, this documentary interrogates notions of education for girls and women and the stereotypes and traditions that affect the status of Black women both in and out of the Academy. A perfect companion film for any classroom discussion on the intersection of racism, sexism and/or feminism.

AIDS IN AFRICA: WHY? A SWAZILAND CASE STUDY

- HIV/AIDS in Southern Africa
- Effects of poverty in Africa
- Effects of structural adjustment in Africa
- Swaziland

70% of the world's HIV infections occur in sub-Saharan Africa. Swaziland, for example, has the highest HIV infection rate in the world. As many as 1 in every 2 young people has the virus. Why has this happened? The reasons are complex and may challenge western assumptions.

CULTURE TO BLAME? Many commentators have put the blame on low condom-use, some even say that Africans are more sexually promiscuous by nature than people in the developed world. Others point to a culture of denial regarding AIDS. Therefore the main solutions put forward have been awareness campaigns geared towards encouraging behaviour change. But is this the point?

OR IS IT STRUCTURAL? Other experts argue that the causes come down to poverty. They point to labour migration in men and pressures for transactional sex in women, brought about by economic policies forced on Swaziland by international finance, with the cooperation of local elites, including the Swazi King, the last absolute monarch in Africa.

How the clean, bright displays in our supermarkets hide a murkier story of exploitation in the supply chain.

ITALY'S ROTTEN TOMATOES If you buy a tin of tomatoes chances are they come from Southern Italy – picked by migrant labour usually from Africa. They're paid a pittance, have no rights and live in shacks. It looks like a third world scene, but this is in the heart of the EU. The Italian authorities are beginning to act against the gang masters, but the exploitation goes on.

SLAVERY AT SEA Chinese and South Korean trawlers work the coast of East Africa, hiring local labour who work in slave-like conditions. The fish is not supposed to go to the EU but it does, by changing the labels on the boxes! EU officials say they try their best to guarantee the quality and source of the fish – but they are understaffed and admit that the law is frequently flouted.

A BAD CASE OF BANANAS PHP is a French multi-national producing bananas for Europe – they claim their workforce is happy, but the crops are being sprayed with chemicals that have been banned in the EU. Local towns and villages have been affected – some workers have gone blind. What chance of change when the local politicians are working for the company?

EVIDENCE-BASED

EVIDENCE-BASED TREATMENT PLANNING FOR ANGER CONTROL PROBLEMS

By Timothy Bruce, Arthur Jongsma, Jr.

How well do you understand the interventions, goals, and documentation requirements of anger management? Hone your skills with this video from Drs. Tim Bruce and Art Jongsma, who take you through the treatment-planning process with detailed overviews, clinical considerations, and case vignettes with clients needing help with anger management.

Today's clinicians are increasingly required to submit consistent, efficient treatment plans for clients' presenting problems—but what these plans actually look like hasn't been as clearly defined. If you've been wondering what, exactly, comprises such a plan or have searched for resources on the empirically supported treatments on which these plans are based, you'll find answers in this new video with Drs. Timothy Bruce and Arthur Jongsma. Here, the two experts tell you everything you need to know about building treatment plans that pass muster with funding sources and serve as a valuable resource for supporting clients with anger control problems.

Bruce and Jongsma outline several ways to integrate empirically supported treatments (ESTs) into anger control treatment, including a brief history of standout approaches. They offer a comprehensive overview of the clinically significant features of anger, and you'll learn to create a six-step treatment plan based on proven interventions. Clinical vignettes feature relaxation training, psychoeducation, cognitive restructuring, skills training (including assertive communication), and live practice. In addition to all this, you'll learn about other common approaches to treatment, as well as relapse prevention.

If you're looking to deepen your understanding of evidence-based treatment planning and the empirically supported interventions that are essential to include, you won't want to miss this information-packed video.

By watching this video, you will:

- Understand the clinically significant features of anger that correlate to particular DSM diagnoses.
- Learn to build a six-step treatment plan based on evidence-based ESTs.
- Gain tools for integrating empirically informed interventions into effective anger control treatment.

EVIDENCE-BASED TREATMENT PLANNING FOR DEPRESSION

By Timothy Bruce, Arthur Jongsma, Jr.

Learn everything you need to know about creating detailed, practical evidence-based treatment plans for depressed clients in this one-of-a-kind video with Drs. Timothy Bruce and Arthur Jongsma, who present an overview and accompanying demonstrations of depression's most empirically supported treatment methods.

Clinicians are overwhelmed these days by an ever-increasing number of psychological approaches and ever-stricter requirements affecting treatment planning. Knowing which of the many approaches qualify as evidence-based, or how to translate their interventions into a coherent, phase-oriented plan, can be challenging. The prevalence of depression as a clinical diagnosis, furthermore, makes standardized treatment planning a necessity for many mental health professionals, yet resources for learning to do so are hard to come by. We're excited to offer this new, in-depth video, in which two clinical experts break down and demonstrate the crucial components of an evidence-based treatment plan for depression.

After giving an overview of the DSM criteria for depression and the history of the empirically supported treatment (EST) movement, Bruce and Jongsma outline the criteria for both "well-established" and "probably efficacious" treatments, going on to describe six of the former methods in detail. With a rundown of these approaches that includes review, demonstration, and commentary, you'll learn how to compose a six-step treatment plan based on the interventions of behavioral activation, cognitive restructuring, personal and interpersonal skills training and problem-solving therapy, and interpersonal therapy. You'll also learn about other common approaches to treatment, as well as relapse prevention.

If you're looking to deepen your understanding of evidence-based treatment planning and the empirically supported treatments on which they're based, be sure to add this information-packed video to your library.

By watching this video, you will:

- Refresh your knowledge of the DSM criteria for depression and the features of a major depressive episode.
- Learn to create a six-step treatment plan based on well-established evidence-based empirically supported treatments.
- Understand the common considerations in depression relapse prevention and how to address them with your clients.

PERVERT'S GUIDE TO IDEOLOGY, THE

By Sophie Fiennes

Cultural theorist superstar Slavoj Žižek re-teams with director Sophie Fiennes (The Pervert's Guide to Cinema) for another wildly entertaining romp through the crossroads of cinema and philosophy. With infectious zeal and a voracious appetite for popular culture, Žižek literally goes inside some truly epochal movies, all the better to explore and expose how they reinforce prevailing ideologies. As the ideology that undergirds our cinematic fantasies is revealed, striking associations emerge: What hidden Catholic teachings lurk at the heart of The Sound of Music? What are the fascist political dimensions of Jaws? Taxi Driver, Zabriskie Point, The Searchers, The Dark Knight, John Carpenter's They Live ("one of the forgotten masterpieces of the Hollywood Left"), Titanic, Kinder Eggs, verite news footage, Beethoven's "Ode to Joy" and propaganda epics from Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia all inform Žižek's stimulating, provocative and often hilarious psychoanalytic-cinematic rant.

FEMINISM

CASABLANCA CALLING

By Rosa Rogers

As political conflict and change sweep the Arab world, CASABLANCA CALLING highlights a quiet social revolution under way in Morocco, where 60% of the women have never attended school. For the first time, Moroccan women are trained and employed as official Muslim leaders or morchidat. Charged with teaching an Islam based on tolerance, compassion and equality, they provide vital support and guidance to communities, especially to girls and women.

At the film's heart are Hannane, Bouchra and Karima, three morchidat assigned to mosques in different parts of Morocco. CASABLANCA CALLING follows them for a year on rounds to schools and other sites to provide advice on marriage and employment; champion education for girls and women; caution against early marriage; and help resolve personal problems. Offering unique access to a story we rarely see, this illuminating documentary demonstrates how women's empowerment through moderate Islam is transforming a nation.

Reviews

- "It is a most engaging, informative and hopeful film." - Sarah Masters, Hartley Film Foundation
- "You have made a deeply meaningful and important film about a new, enlightened generation of Muslim women leaders who will undoubtedly change the future of women in Morocco. I applaud your tenacity and artistry and take comfort in knowing your film will find homes with many festivals around the world." - Caroline Libresco, Sundance Film Festival

DERBY CRAZY LOVE

By Maya Gallus and Justine Pimlott

The latest documentary from Toronto filmmakers Maya Gallus and Justine Pimlott takes viewers inside the adrenaline-fueled phenomenon of women's roller derby. With over 1,400 leagues worldwide, it is now the fastest growing women's sport.

DERBY CRAZY LOVE accompanies Montreal's top team, New Skids on the Block, on its exhilarating journey to regional championships, where they face off in a pitched battle against U.K. powerhouse, London Rollergirls, and reigning world champions, New York's Gotham Girls. New Skids players and their British and U.S. rivals share stories of being powerful women in traditional sports, along with insights about derby's recent rebirth, after decades of decline, as a vibrant, original expression of third wave feminism and Amazon-like physicality rooted in punk's colorful DIY counterculture. Deftly tackling issues of masculinity, femininity, aggression, body image, queer identity and gender norms, this fast-paced yet reflective film captures the spirit of community, inclusiveness, and sisterhood at roller derby's core today.

FOSTER CARE

INTERVIEW WITH A MOTHER ABOUT ADDICTION & FOSTER CARE

This is a candid interview with a real mother who lost custody of her children. Without making excuses for her behavior, she talks about her own abusive childhood, her drug use, how she neglected her children while using, and what she had to endure before she was willing to get clean and work to get her kids back. What shines through it all is the deep love she feels for her children and her gratitude toward their foster mother, who took care of them while she got her life on track.

She also advocates for children taken into foster care by urging foster parents to accept the kids where they are at. Kids who have lost everything and are suddenly expected to live a typical middle class existence are going to struggle. Balanced meals at normal meal times, basic hygiene routines and other practices many children take for granted may be alien to children entering care, and she encourages gentleness and patience with the kids.

KISMET

By Nina Maria Paschalidou

Wildly popular at home, Turkish soap operas have taken the world by storm with more than 300 million viewers in 80 countries across the Middle East, North Africa, the Balkans, and Asia. With unprecedented access, KISMET delves into this phenomenon, weaving together excerpts from the major shows including interviews with their talent and the writers, producers and directors behind the scenes—primarily made up of women—and portraits of the everyday viewers in Turkey, Egypt, the United Arab Emirates, Bulgaria, and Greece.

Exploring how the serials captivate, inspire and empower women, the film reveals how the soaps impact and break down negative stereotypes and traditional taboos. The soaps openly discuss rape, sexual and domestic violence, child and arranged marriages, and honor killings while also sparking change in gender relationships, activism against sexual abuse, and a wave of divorce across the Middle East. Invaluable for studies in media and popular culture, KISMET discloses how profoundly Turkish soaps penetrate viewers' social and religious realities while empowering and helping women to transform their lives and strengthen the debate about women's rights across the region.

OSTEOPOROSIS: A CLINICAL REVIEW

By Valerie Peck, MD

Osteoporosis is a major health threat in the United States. More than 10 million individuals currently have osteoporosis with an additional 34 million suffering from low bone mass. Between 40 and 50 percent of women over age 50, and approximately 25% of men over 50, will suffer an osteoporosis-related fracture within their lifetime. In this video segment from the 36.25 hour NYU Comprehensive Review of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, Dr. Peck reviews an evidence-based approach for working up and treating osteoporosis.

How the clean, bright displays in our supermarkets hide a murkier story of exploitation in the supply chain.

ITALY'S ROTTEN TOMATOES If you buy a tin of tomatoes chances are they come from Southern Italy – picked by migrant labour usually from Africa. They're paid a pittance, have no rights and live in shacks. It looks like a third world scene, but this is in the heart of the EU. The Italian authorities are beginning to act against the gang masters, but the exploitation goes on.

SLAVERY AT SEA Chinese and South Korean trawlers work the coast of East Africa, hiring local labour who work in slave-like conditions. The fish is not supposed to go to the EU but it does, by changing the labels on the boxes! EU officials say they try their best to guarantee the quality and source of the fish – but they are understaffed and admit that the law is frequently flouted.

A BAD CASE OF BANANAS PHP is a French multi-national producing bananas for Europe – they claim their workforce is happy, but the crops are being sprayed with chemicals that have been banned in the EU. Local towns and villages have been affected – some workers have gone blind. What chance of change when the local politicians are working for the company?

DRUG-FREE WORKPLACE, THE: SETTING THE STANDARD

Federal regulations require drug-free training for certain agencies, contractors and occupations.

Even if drug-free training is not legally mandated in your business or industry, everyone benefits from raising employee awareness on the impact that drugs or alcohol can have on your workplace.

Performance and safety sink fast when employees abuse alcohol or drugs. Others may feel they have to take up the slack when their coworkers attempt to work under the influence—falling short of expectations and increasing the risk of accident or injury.

This program features believable scenes in construction, manufacturing, hospitality, food service, and business. It raises your employees' awareness of this widespread problem, shows the harm that can be done to themselves and others, and encourages them to get help if they or a coworker is affected by drug or alcohol abuse.

HAZMAT: WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

This video helps you meet mandated training requirements for OSHA's revised GHS Hazard Communication Standard.

The OSHA Hazard Communication Standard (HCS) requires that employees who work with potentially hazardous chemicals receive information about how to use these substances safely. This includes knowing how to read and understand the newly revised Globally Harmonized System (GHS) labels and 16-section Safety Data Sheets.

As the GHS format is implemented, hazardous materials arriving at your warehouse or work site will appear with these new, strictly defined labels and Safety Data Sheets (SDSs). Your workforce needs to be prepared for this new way of presenting information that helps them recognize dangers and work safely.

This brand new video explains:

- Chemical types and methods of exposure
- The elements of GHS labels and SDSs
- Pictograms and signal words
- Hazard statements and precautionary statements
- The importance of using PPE when required

HISTORY

GALAPAGOS AFFAIR, THE: SATAN CAME TO EDEN

By Dayna Goldfine, Dan Geller

Darwin meets Hitchcock in this true-crime tale of paradise found and lost. The Galapagos Affair: Satan Came To Eden is a fascinating documentary portrait of a 1930s murder mystery as strange and alluring as the famous archipelago itself. Fleeing conventional society, a Berlin doctor and his mistress start a new life on uninhabited Floreana Island. But after the international press sensationalizes the exploits of the Galapagos' "Adam and Eve", others flock there—including a self-styled Swiss Family Robinson and a gun-toting Viennese Baroness and her two lovers. Clashing personalities are aggravated by the island community's lusty free-love ethos, and when some of the islanders disappear, suspicions of murder hang in the air leaving an unsolved mystery which remains the subject of local lore today.

LET THE FIRE BURN

By Jason Osder

In the astonishingly gripping Let the Fire Burn, director Jason Osder has crafted that rarest of cinematic objects: a found-footage film that unfurls with the tension of a great thriller. On May 13, 1985, a longtime feud between the city of Philadelphia and controversial radical urban group MOVE came to a deadly climax. By order of local authorities, police dropped military-grade explosives onto a MOVE-occupied rowhouse. TV cameras captured the conflagration that quickly escalated—and resulted in the tragic deaths of eleven people (including five children) and the destruction of 61 homes. It was only later discovered that authorities decided to "...let the fire burn." Using only archival news coverage and interviews, first-time filmmaker Osder has brought to life one of the most tumultuous and largely forgotten clashes between government and citizens in modern American history.

HUMAN RIGHTS

SIX DAYS: THREE ACTIVISTS, THREE WARS, ONE DREAM

By Nikolina Gillgren, Johan Sandstrom

This inspiring documentary which follows three brave human rights defenders in Liberia, Abkhazia, Georgia and Iraq over six days, gives insight into the everyday struggle to improve the situation of women worldwide. SIX DAYS shines a necessary light on some of the most urgent and important human rights issues facing women today: girls education, honor killings, bride kidnappings and women's health issues.

Giving refuge and voice to women beaten, burned and threatened with death by their families, journalist Larja, fearlessly challenges honor killings and domestic violence in Iraq's Kurdish region. Nelly runs a cooperative and shelter in Monrovia, Liberia's slums so that impoverished women can learn to read and earn money for their families. And in the breakaway republic of Abkhazia, Georgia, Maia, director of a women's health group fighting for women's sexual rights, brings medical care to women and girls in remote Caucasus villages while battling "bride kidnappings" and other archaic customs that lead to forced marriage.

As it follows these three remarkable women, thousands of miles apart, SIX DAYS bears witness to their unwavering, shared commitment to women's education, empowerment and dreams of a better life. An important film for those who wish to understand the challenges facing women in developing countries around the world and how feminism continues to help improve women's lives.

SOUND OF TORTURE

By Keren Shayo

Since 2006 when Europe closed its borders, human trafficking has burgeoned in Egypt's Sinai Desert, where Eritrean asylum seekers and refugees heading north to Israel are kidnapped, held hostage, and tortured by Bedouin smugglers demanding exorbitant ransoms for their freedom. Fleeing an oppressive military dictatorship at home, with a "shoot-to-kill" policy at the border and where only pregnant women are exempted from service, over 300,000 Eritreans have fled their homeland in North Africa. Many of these men, women and children die in Sinai's torture camps.

This powerful documentary intimately follows Swedish-Eritrean journalist Meron Estefanos and her efforts to aid the hostages and their families. From Stockholm she runs a popular online radio show, fielding calls for help from Eritrean victims and their relatives. Her activism takes her to Israel and Egypt's Sinai Desert to seek the release of a badly abused young woman held captive with her baby and to search for another who disappeared along the Egyptian-Israeli border after her ransom had been paid. Both eloquent and harrowing, SOUND OF TORTURE spotlights one of today's most underreported human rights violations and the one woman who is making it her mission to create change.

SUPREME PRICE, THE

By Joanna Lipper

Director Joanna Lipper elegantly explores past and present as she tells the remarkable story of Hafsat Abiola, daughter of human rights heroine Kudirat Abiola, and Nigeria's President-elect M.K.O. Abiola, who won a historic vote in 1993 that promised to end years of military dictatorship. Shortly after the election M.K.O. Abiola's victory was annulled and he was arrested. While he was imprisoned, his wife Kudirat took over leadership of the pro-democracy movement, organizing strikes and rallies, winning international attention for the Nigerian struggle against human rights violations perpetrated by the military dictatorship. Because of this work, she too became a target and was assassinated in 1996. In this riveting political thriller, the Abiola family's intimate story unfolds against the epic backdrop of Nigeria's evolution from independence in 1960 - through the Biafra War, subsequent military dictatorships and the tumultuous transition to civilian rule - through present day as Hafsat continues to face the challenge of transforming a corrupt culture of governance into a democracy capable of serving Nigeria's most marginalized population: women.

ISLAM

CASABLANCA CALLING

By Rosa Rogers

As political conflict and change sweep the Arab world, CASABLANCA CALLING highlights a quiet social revolution under way in Morocco, where 60% of the women have never attended school. For the first time, Moroccan women are trained and employed as official Muslim leaders or murchidat. Charged with teaching an Islam based on tolerance, compassion and equality, they provide vital support and guidance to communities, especially to girls and women.

At the film's heart are Hannane, Bouchra and Karima, three murchidat assigned to mosques in different parts of Morocco. CASABLANCA CALLING follows them for a year on rounds to schools and other sites to provide advice on marriage and employment; champion education for girls and women; caution against early marriage; and help resolve personal problems. Offering unique access to a story we rarely see, this illuminating documentary demonstrates how women's empowerment through moderate Islam is transforming a nation.

JEWISH STUDIES

ESTHER BRONER: A WEAVE OF WOMEN

By Lilly Rivlin

Prolific writer, passionate activist, dedicated scholar and pioneering feminist, Esther Broner infused second wave feminism with a distinctive Jewish voice. In the mid-1970s, as the women's movement was vastly changing views on gender and equality, Broner created a radical new Haggadah (the text for the Passover service seder) that preserved but reimagined Jewish rituals and culture by shifting the focus onto women. Transforming the male-centered service into a powerful reclamation of women's lives and stories, it became, under Broner's leadership, the basis for a Jewish feminist tradition that continues today.

This inspiring documentary by acclaimed filmmaker Lilly Rivlin revisits Broner's richly engaged political, artistic and spiritual life through archival photos, video footage spanning several decades, and interviews with family and friends, including Gloria Steinem, Bella Abzug, Grace Paley, and other famous feminists. Drawing its title from one of Broner's celebrated novels, the film helps explore the intersection of feminism and religion, and helps answer the question, is there room for feminism and religious tradition in a traditionally male dominated space?

Reviews

- "Rivlin captures Broner's big heart, wildly inventive mind, compassion and her loud, infectious, frequent laugh. Her strong storytelling skills are also evident..." - The Jewish Weekly
- "What a deeply fascinating and heartfelt portrait of Esther. It's an important documentation that brilliantly captured a complex multi layered woman who dares challenging the norms of her time." - Ariel Jordan, Filmmaker/Writer
- "The film is a gift, of a time, documented so we can feel again how fresh it was to be in the presence of passionate women creating beauty/power/community, feeling it rise out from under." - Myra Shapiro, Poet

LEADERSHIP

FEMINIST: STORIES FROM WOMEN'S LIBERATION

By Jennifer Lee

Structured as a personal journey of rediscovery by filmmaker Jennifer Lee, this documentary brings the momentous first decade of secondwave feminism vividly to life. Its trajectory starts with the earliest stirrings in 1963 and ends with the movement's full blossoming in 1970—from the Presidential Commission's report on widespread discrimination against women and publication of Betty Friedan's Feminine Mystique up through radical feminists' takeover of the Statue of Liberty and Friedan's calls for a women's strike for equality. A wealth of period footage captures landmark events and the pivotal roles of the National Organization for Women (NOW), the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission (EEOC), the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), Redstockings, and other organizations. Thirty-five diverse interviewees, including rank-and-file activists along with well-known feminists Betty Friedan, Frances M. Beale, Gloria Steinem, Robin Morgan, Ti-Grace Atkinson, and others, share memories of the period as well as issues and challenges that still resonate today. A great introduction to Women's Studies and critical viewing for historians and academics interested in feminism, activism and the Women's Movement.

MASS MEDIA & POPULAR CULTURE

KISMET

By Nina Maria Paschalidou

Wildly popular at home, Turkish soap operas have taken the world by storm with more than 300 million viewers in 80 countries across the Middle East, North Africa, the Balkans, and Asia. With unprecedented access, KISMET delves into this phenomenon, weaving together excerpts from the major shows including interviews with their talent and the writers, producers and directors behind the scenes—primarily made up of women—and portraits of the everyday viewers in Turkey, Egypt, the United Arab Emirates, Bulgaria, and Greece.

Exploring how the serials captivate, inspire and empower women, the film reveals how the soaps impact and break down negative stereotypes and traditional taboos. The soaps openly discuss rape, sexual and domestic violence, child and arranged marriages, and honor killings while also sparking change in gender relationships, activism against sexual abuse, and a wave of divorce across the Middle East. Invaluable for studies in media and popular culture, KISMET discloses how profoundly Turkish soaps penetrate viewers' social and religious realities while empowering and helping women to transform their lives and strengthen the debate about women's rights across the region.

MEDIA STUDIES

CASTING BY

Director: Tom Donahue

Casting By places the spotlight on one of filmmaking's unsung heroes – casting director Marion Dougherty – and takes us on a journey through 50 years of Hollywood history from an entirely new perspective. Relying on her exquisite taste and gut instincts, Dougherty helped usher in the 'New Hollywood' with movies like Midnight Cowboy, The Graduate, Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid and Bonnie and Clyde, and in the process launched the careers of iconic actors including James Dean, Robert Duvall, Warren Beatty, Christopher Plummer, Glenn Close, John Travolta, Jeff Bridges, Bette Midler and countless others. Breaking away from tradition studio typecasting, Dougherty started the first independent casting agency and quickly became a favorite for directors, producers, and studio chiefs. Over the next 35 years, Dougherty became an indispensable ally to some of the best filmmakers in Hollywood.

In Tom Donahue's entertaining and illuminated documentary, directors and actors including Martin Scorsese, Woody Allen, Clint Eastwood, Glenn Close, Robert Duvall, Jeff Bridges, Al Pacino, Robert De Niro, Diane Lane, Jon Voight, Bette Midler and John Travolta reveal insights into their early careers and share fond memories of Dougherty, all interwoven with rarely seen clips as well as scenes from classic films The Sting, Goodfellas, Annie Hall, The Great Escape and West Side Story.

SMILING THROUGH THE APOCALYPSE

Director: Tom Hayes

Esquire magazine was a galvanizing force in American culture from the early 1960s through the early '70s. Forging its pop-cultural capital on the basis of provocative cover art, intellectual audacity and riveting articles by the preeminent and cutting edge writers of the time, the magazine captured the zeitgeist of America in the crucible of the '60s.

The chief architect of this print revolution was Harold Hayes, a brilliant and tenacious editor who granted Esquire's contributors unprecedented journalistic freedom. Hayes' fearless instincts provided a haven for writers like Gore Vidal, Tom Wolfe, Gay Talese, Nora Ephron, William F. Buckley and Norman Mailer, and nurtured the iconoclastic talents of art director George Lois. By making it possible for writers and artists to bring novelistic techniques into reportage Hayes fostered what became known as "New Journalism".

The indelible cultural contributions captured in this enthralling documentary by his son, Tom Hayes, provide a vivid context for nothing less than the rebirth of American aesthetics. Featuring interviews with Robert Benton, Candice Bergen, Peter Bogdanovich, Brock Brower, Graydon Carter, Lee Eisenberg, Harlan Ellison, Nora Ephron, Robert Frank, Hugh Hefner, Tom Meehan, Frank Rich, Bob Rirkind, Gay Talese, Gore Vidal, Ed Wilson, Tom Wolfe and many others.

Review

- "[This] poignant personal memoir and a chronicle of a fascinating period in cultural and literary history... takes a look at the scintillating tenure of Harold Hayes, the editor of Esquire magazine during the 1960s. Skillfully edited and energetically paced, Smiling Through provides a memorable time capsule for those who miss the smart magazines that will never return." - Hollywood Reporter

SIX DAYS: THREE ACTIVISTS, THREE WARS, ONE DREAM

By Nikolina Gillgren, Johan Sandstrom

This inspiring documentary which follows three brave human rights defenders in Liberia, Abkhazia, Georgia and Iraq over six days, gives insight into the everyday struggle to improve the situation of women worldwide. SIX DAYS shines a necessary light on some of the most urgent and important human rights issues facing women today: girls education, honor killings, bride kidnappings and women's health issues.

Giving refuge and voice to women beaten, burned and threatened with death by their families, journalist Lanja, fearlessly challenges honor killings and domestic violence in Iraq's Kurdish region. Nelly runs a cooperative and shelter in Monrovia, Liberia's slums so that impoverished women can learn to read and earn money for their families. And in the breakaway republic of Abkhazia, Georgia, Maia, director of a women's health group fighting for women's sexual rights, brings medical care to women and girls in remote Caucasus villages while battling "bride kidnappings" and other archaic customs that lead to forced marriage.

As it follows these three remarkable women, thousands of miles apart, SIX DAYS bears witness to their unwavering, shared commitment to women's education, empowerment and dreams of a better life. An important film for those who wish to understand the challenges facing women in developing countries around the world and how feminism continues to help improve women's lives.

SOUND OF TORTURE

By Keren Shayo

Since 2006 when Europe closed its borders, human trafficking has burgeoned in Egypt's Sinai Desert, where Eritrean asylum seekers and refugees heading north to Israel are kidnapped, held hostage, and tortured by Bedouin smugglers demanding exorbitant ransoms for their freedom. Fleeing an oppressive military dictatorship at home, with a "shoot-to-kill" policy at the border and where only pregnant women are exempted from service, over 300,000 Eritreans have fled their homeland in North Africa. Many of these men, women and children die in Sinai's torture camps.

This powerful documentary intimately follows Swedish-Eritrean journalist Meron Estefanos and her efforts to aid the hostages and their families. From Stockholm she runs a popular online radio show, fielding calls for help from Eritrean victims and their relatives. Her activism takes her to Israel and Egypt's Sinai Desert to seek the release of a badly abused young woman held captive with her baby and to search for another who disappeared along the Egyptian-Israeli border after her ransom had been paid. Both eloquent and harrowing, SOUND OF TORTURE spotlights one of today's most underreported human rights violations and the one woman who is making it her mission to create change.

MOTIVATIONAL INTERVIEWING

ANGER MANAGEMENT IN COUNSELING AND PSYCHOTHERAPY

By Raymond Chip Tafrate, Howard Kassonove

Watch anger experts Howard Kassonove and Chip Tafrate demystify the challenging work of anger management in this indispensable video! Whatever your professional setting, you'll breathe easier with this practical, empirically validated showcase of exercises, live sessions, and tools to strengthen your practice.

Angry clients present complexities that challenge new and seasoned clinicians alike. Between the need to establish a strong working alliance with mandated clients, increase motivation in the face of therapeutic ambivalence, gain agreement on anger triggers, and navigate the mental terrain of clients who minimize their own role in their anger, therapists require approaches tailored to a condition much less understood than formal clinical disorders (such as anxiety or depression). In this video, two anger experts—Drs. Howard Kassonove and Chip Tafrate—offer a series of live case examples grounded in their research-based anger episode model, designed to support both clients and clinicians in understanding the variations of the anger experience.

Kassonove and Tafrate treat no less than seven different clients in this comprehensive video, with each vignette tied to a particular technique. Key concepts such as assessment, verbal reinforcement, interviewing, identifying triggers, relaxation techniques, and forgiveness are demonstrated, with introductory commentary and instructive captioning.

You'll find valuable takeaways in each section—and prepare to be moved by an interview between Tafrate and Walt, a man who found healing through the long process of forgiving—even to the point of befriending—his son's murderer. Less radical yet no less important are Kassonove's before-and-after sessions with Ian (the latter a one year follow-up), a young adult seeking help after a difficult breakup. The two clinicians balance inner change work with interventions to support letting go, making for a refreshing, contemporary take on anger control.

This information-packed video demystifies not just anger treatment, but the anger experience itself. Give yourself the opportunity to learn from these two experts by adding this resource to your library today.

By watching this video, you will:

- Understand the clinical variations of the anger experience, including its emotional, cognitive, and somatic elements.
- Learn strategies to assess and increase motivation with ambivalent clients.
- Identify a range of techniques to help clients reduce or manage their anger.

NATIVE AMERICAN

LADONNA HARRIS: INDIAN 101

By Julianna Brannum

LADONNA HARRIS: INDIAN 101 from Comanche filmmaker Julianna Brannum, chronicles the life of Comanche activist and national civil rights leader LaDonna Harris and the role that she has played in Native and mainstream America history since the 1960s. In this new verite style documentary, Brannum, the great niece of Harris, celebrates her life and the personal struggles that led her to become a voice for Native people and her contemporary work to strengthen and rebuild indigenous communities and train emerging Native leaders around the world.

Harris's activism began in Oklahoma, fighting segregation and assisting grassroots Native and women's groups. In Washington LaDonna introduced landmark programs and legislation returning territory to tribes, improving education and healthcare for Native Americans, ending job discrimination against women, and targeting other pressing issues of the time. For over three decades, "Indian 101," her course for legislators, combatted ignorance about America's most marginalized population. Using interviews, archival footage and photographs, this film justly celebrates one of the most important women leaders in Native American and U.S. history.

POLITICS

FEMINIST: STORIES FROM WOMEN'S LIBERATION

By Jennifer Lee

Structured as a personal journey of rediscovery by filmmaker Jennifer Lee, this documentary brings the momentous first decade of secondwave feminism vividly to life. Its trajectory starts with the earliest stirrings in 1963 and ends with the movement's full blossoming in 1970—from the Presidential Commission's report on widespread discrimination against women and publication of Betty Friedan's Feminine Mystique up through radical feminists' takeover of the Statue of Liberty and Friedan's calls for a women's strike for equality. A wealth of period footage captures landmark events and the pivotal roles of the National Organization for Women (NOW), the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission (EEOC), the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), Redstockings, and other organizations. Thirty-five diverse interviewees, including rank-and-file activists along with well-known feminists Betty Friedan, Frances M. Beale, Gloria Steinem, Robin Morgan, Ti-Grace Atkinson, and others, share memories of the period as well as issues and challenges that still resonate today. A great introduction to Women's Studies and critical viewing for historians and academics interested in feminism, activism and the Women's Movement.

LET THE FIRE BURN

By Jason Osder

In the astonishingly gripping Let the Fire Burn, director Jason Osder has crafted that rarest of cinematic objects: a found-footage film that unfurls with the tension of a great thriller. On May 13, 1985, a longtime feud between the city of Philadelphia and controversial radical urban group MOVE came to a deadly climax. By order of local authorities, police dropped military-grade explosives onto a MOVE-occupied rowhouse. TV cameras captured the conflagration that quickly escalated—and resulted in the tragic deaths of eleven people (including five children) and the destruction of 61 homes. It was only later discovered that authorities decided to "...let the fire burn." Using only archival news coverage and interviews, first-time filmmaker Osder has brought to life one of the most tumultuous and largely forgotten clashes between government and citizens in modern American history.

PERVERT'S GUIDE TO IDEOLOGY, THE

By Sophie Fiennes

Cultural theorist superstar Slavoj Zizek re-teams with director Sophie Fiennes (The Pervert's Guide to Cinema) for another wildly entertaining romp through the crossroads of cinema and philosophy. With infectious zeal and a voracious appetite for popular culture, Zizek literally goes inside some truly epochal movies, all the better to explore and expose how they reinforce prevailing ideologies. As the ideology that undergirds our cinematic fantasies is revealed, striking associations emerge: What hidden Catholic teachings lurk at the heart of The Sound of Music? What are the fascist political dimensions of Jaws? Taxi Driver, Zabriskie Point, The Searchers, The Dark Knight, John Carpenter's They Live ("one of the forgotten masterpieces of the Hollywood Left"), Titanic, Kinder Eggs, verite news footage, Beethoven's "Ode to Joy" and propaganda epics from Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia all inform Zizek's stimulating, provocative and often hilarious psychoanalytic-cinematic rant.

RACE

HOMEGOINGS

Director: Christine Turner

Homegoings takes an up-close look at the rarely seen world of undertaking in the black community, where funeral rites draw on a rich palette of tradition, history and celebration. It reveals the special status of undertakers in the community; borne out of their permanence, their economic stability, and the necessities of the segregation period. It film paints a portrait of the dearly departed, their grieving families and a man who sends loved ones "home."

Homegoings examines how the traditions are being forced to adapt to our lean economic times, as families opt for cremation, instead of the more costly burials and as smaller "Mom and Pop" funeral homes close.

Homegoings will resonate with those familiar with the traditions as well as move and inform the uninitiated who want to understand how specific cultures deal with death and mourning. It will be a compelling resource for classes in African American Studies, Psychology, Anthropology, Sociology, Social Work, and the health professions.

RACISM

LIVING THINKERS: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF BLACK WOMEN IN THE IVORY TOWER

By Roxana Walker-Canton

LIVING THINKERS: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF BLACK WOMEN IN THE IVORY TOWER examines the intersection of race, class and gender for Black women professors and administrators working in U.S. colleges and universities today. Through their diverse narratives, from girlhood to the present, Black women from different disciplines share experiences that have shaped them, including segregated schooling as children, and the trials, disappointments and triumphs encountered in Academia. Though more than 100 years have passed since the doors to higher education opened for Black women, their numbers as faculty members are woefully low and for many still, the image of Black women as intellectuals is incomprehensible. And while overtly expressed racism, sexism and discrimination have declined, their presence is often still often unacknowledged. Through frank and sometimes humorous conversations, this documentary interrogates notions of education for girls and women and the stereotypes and traditions that affect the status of Black women both in and out of the Academy. A perfect companion film for any classroom discussion on the intersection of racism, sexism and/or feminism.

REFLECTIONS UNHEARD: BLACK WOMEN IN CIVIL RIGHTS

By Nevline Nnaji

Where do black women activists fit into the epochal struggles for equality and liberation during the 1960s and 70s? This feature-length documentary unearths the story of black women's political marginalization—between the male-dominated Black Power movement and second wave feminism, which was largely white and middle class—showing how each failed to recognize black women's overlapping racial and gender identities.

Archival footage and in-depth interviews with former members of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), SNCC's Black Women's Liberation Committee, the Black Panther Party, Third World Women's Alliance, and the National Black Women's Feminist Organization reveal how black women mobilized, fought for recognition, and raised awareness of how sexism and class issues affected women of color within and outside The Black Power Movement and mainstream feminism. Prominently featured activists include Frances Beale, Angela Davis, Kola Boof, Nikki Giovanni, Rosemary Mealy, Judy Richardson, Gwendolyn Simmons, Deborah Singletary, and Eugenia Wiltshire. Required viewing for Women's Studies, African American Studies, and students of the Civil Rights Movement.

REHABILITATION AND PHYSICAL MEDICINE

OSTEOPOROSIS: A CLINICAL REVIEW

By Valerie Peck, MD

Osteoporosis is a major health threat in the United States. More than 10 million individuals currently have osteoporosis with an additional 34 million suffering from low bone mass. Between 40 and 50 percent of women over age 50, and approximately 25% of men over 50, will suffer an osteoporosis-related fracture within their lifetime. In this video segment from the 36.25 hour NYU Comprehensive Review of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, Dr. Peck reviews an evidence-based approach for working up and treating osteoporosis.

RELIGION

BUDDHISM

By Malcolm David Eckel

A religion without God? How could that be? And how could it have captured and captivated so many millions of people in so many countries for so many centuries? No doubt you can picture the Buddha—seated serenely, feet crossed in front of him, hands folded in his lap. But who was the real person behind this image? What did he say about the nature and purpose of life? What were the origins of the concepts of reincarnation, nirvana, karma, and Zen, and what is the Buddhist understanding of them? Buddhism is your opportunity to trace the history, principles, and evolution of a theology that is both familiar and foreign.

GOD LOVES UGANDA

Director: Roger Ross

With God Loves Uganda, Academy Award-winning filmmaker Roger Ross Williams (Music by Prudence) explores the role of the American evangelical movement in Uganda, where American missionaries have been credited with both creating school and hospitals and promoting their ideas about sexuality identity and expression. The film follows politicians, young missionaries, and evangelical leaders, including Pastor Robert Kayanja, Pastor Martin Ssempe, Pastor Scott Lively, Lou Engle, and Bishop Christopher Senyonjo (winner of the 2012 Clinton Global Citizen Award) as they attempt the radical task of eliminating "sexual sin" and converting Ugandans to evangelical Christianity.

As an American influenced bill to make homosexuality punishable by death wins widespread support, tension in Uganda mounts and an atmosphere of murderous hatred takes hold. Thanks to charismatic religious leaders and a well-financed campaign, these draconian new laws and the politicians that promote them are winning over the Ugandan public.

Through interviews and hidden camera footage and with unprecedented access on the ground, the film allows American religious leaders and their young missionaries that make up the "front lines in a battle for billions of souls" to explain their positions in their own words. Shocking and enlightening, touching and horrifying, God Loves Uganda will leave you questioning how closely this brand of Christianity resembles the one you think you know and contemplating the repercussions of ideological colonialism in developing nations.

HINDUISM

By Mark W. Muesse

Terms we associate with Hinduism—"Hinduism," "religion," and "India"—are all Western creations, notions that for most of history did not accurately reflect the thinking of those who practice this most ancient of the great faiths.

In fact, one of the primary themes of Professor Mark W. Muesse's lectures is the difficulty of studying Hinduism without imposing Western perceptions upon it.

In Hinduism you will find a religion that is perhaps the most diverse of all, that worships more gods and goddesses than any other, and which rejects the notion that there is one path to the divine.

JUDAISM

By Isaiah M. Gafni

What is the "essence" of Judaism? Is it the Ten Commandments, given by God to Israel at Mount Sinai? Or is it the totality of teachings in the Hebrew Bible? Or is it symbolized by something outside the Bible?

However Judaism is defined, the beliefs, practices, attitudes, and institutions of Jews through the ages display a striking diversity, despite the fact that all would ascribe to a common heritage.

Professor Isaiah M. Gafni of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem addresses these and other issues as he explores the ever-changing 4,000-year-old saga of Judaism, one of the world's most ancient and influential religions.

SCHOOL COUNSELING, PSYCHOLOGY, AND EDUCATION

CHILDREN AND ADOLESCENTS: COGNITIVE-BEHAVIORAL GROUP PLAY INTERVENTIONS

With Linda A. Reddy, PhD

In this video, Dr. Linda A. Reddy demonstrates evidence-based approaches to implementing cognitive-behavioral group play interventions with children who are 4–10 years old. Often times, children with neurocognitive and behavioral issues such as ADHD, have trouble interacting with other children and adults.

The cognitive-behavioral approach shown here uses group play interventions to help children develop prosocial skills such as sharing, asking for and offering help. Dr. Reddy's group-play interventions include a multimodal approach that integrates cognitive-behavioral interventions and skill-intensive opportunities for learning through teaching modalities, as well as structured group therapy interventions.

In this video, Dr. Reddy demonstrates cognitive-behavioral group play interventions with four elementary-aged school children through several exercises in developmentally appropriate games.

SPECIFIC TREATMENTS FOR SPECIFIC POPULATIONS: PARENTS OF CHILDREN WITH AUTISM SPECTRUM DISORDER

With V. Mark Durand, PhD

In Parents of Children With Autism Spectrum Disorder, V. Mark Durand demonstrates his positive parenting approach to working with mothers and fathers of children who have been diagnosed with autism spectrum disorder (ASD).

ASD is an increasingly common diagnosis among children, and symptoms such as repetitive behaviors and communication deficiencies can challenge parents, often affecting their personal relationships and daily activities. The evidence-based approach demonstrated in this video focuses on increasing a sense of hope in these parents.

In this video, Dr. Durand works with a single-mother of an 8-year old boy with autism spectrum disorder. He helps her see that how she thinks about herself and her son impacts on her relationship with him at home. He then helps her focus on seeing the improvements she has seen in her son's behavior over time, and encourages her to take credit for these positive changes.

SOCIAL AND POLITICAL ISSUES

ARRIBES: EVERYTHING ELSE IS NOISE

Directed, filmed and edited by Zev Robinson

This documentary is a portrait of the lives of the inhabitants of Arribes, an isolated region of Spain, where self-sufficiency is a way of life. Producing 80-90% of what they eat and recycling everything, they show us a powerful, living example of a healthy and sustainable lifestyle and environment we can all learn from.

Reviews

- "What is particularly interesting about his work, is that Zev is using the high tech tools presented to him: HD cameras, social media, digital video, planes, trains and smartphones, to present a slower, older, quieter world: where people take the necessary time to produce essentials such as food and wine; where century's old cultural heritage is preserved." - Gwendolyn Alston, MocaMediaTV

- "The film provokes a reflection about human being's ability to live in a way less damaging to the environment. Words like sustainability, self-sufficiency, ecology, tradition, local food are used in the documentary, but are very present in the Arribes area although without anyone using them." - Jose Manuel Blanco, El Mundo
- "Zev is known for films that feel like moving paintings, with stories that ebb and flow into the highly contrasted light and shadow. They are eye-catching, thoughtful and attack subjects that are near and dear to his heart. His most recent work on the very small Spanish wine region of Arribes appears to be as breathtaking and thought-provoking as his previous work." - Ryan Opaz, Catavino

SPORTS

DERBY CRAZY LOVE

By Maya Gallus and Justine Pimlott

The latest documentary from Toronto filmmakers Maya Gallus and Justine Pimlott takes viewers inside the adrenaline-fueled phenomenon of women's roller derby. With over 1,400 leagues worldwide, it is now the fastest growing women's sport.

DERBY CRAZY LOVE accompanies Montreal's top team, New Skids on the Block, on its exhilarating journey to regional championships, where they face off in a pitched battle against U.K. powerhouse, London Rollergirls, and reigning world champions, New York's Gotham Girls. New Skids players and their British and U.S. rivals share stories of being powerful women in traditional sports, along with insights about derby's recent rebirth, after decades of decline, as a vibrant, original expression of third wave feminism and Amazon-like physicality rooted in punk's colorful DIY counterculture. Deftly tackling issues of masculinity, femininity, aggression, body image, queer identity and gender norms, this fast-paced yet reflective film captures the spirit of community, inclusiveness, and sisterhood at roller derby's core today.

Reviews

- "The feverishly passionate tone of the sport is represented beautifully from start to finish." - Third Row
- "DERBY CRAZY LOVE takes us to the heart of one of the last decade's most thrilling sporting phenomena." - POV Magazine

- "The "DIY punk rock" environment is what keeps roller derby true to its core of being community-oriented and inclusive...people who feel marginalized because of their gender identity or sexual orientation find a safe space to play sports." - The Daily Xtra

SYSTEMS OF PSYCHOTHERAPY

SYSTEMS OF PSYCHOTHERAPY: THE THERAPY RELATIONSHIP

With Charles J. Gelso, PhD

In The Therapy Relationship, Charles J. Gelso discusses his model of client-therapist relationship using illustrative examples from the therapy demonstration he conducts in this video.

This tripartite model of the psychotherapy relationship consists of the personal or real relationship between the therapist and the client, the working alliance, and transference/countertransference. This model posits that each therapy relationship must to some degree consist of these three elements, although the importance of any one part of the relationship may vary depending on the client and therapist, the type of therapy used, and the stage of the therapy.

In this video, Dr. Gelso explains this therapy relationship model then works in a session with a young man who resists intimacy in his relationships. After the demonstration session, Dr. Gelso discusses the tripartite model, pointing to moments in the session that illustrate aspects of the model and provide some hint at how the therapy relationship might unfold in the future.

WOMEN'S MOVEMENT

ESTHER BRONER: A WEAVE OF WOMEN

By Lilly Rivlin

Prolific writer, passionate activist, dedicated scholar and pioneering feminist, Esther Broner infused second wave feminism with a distinctive Jewish voice. In the mid-1970s, as the women's movement was vastly changing views on gender and equality, Broner created a radical new Haggadah (the text for the Passover service seder) that preserved but reimagined Jewish rituals and culture by shifting the focus onto women. Transforming the male-centered service into a powerful reclamation of women's lives and stories, it became, under Broner's leadership, the basis for a Jewish feminist tradition that continues today.

This inspiring documentary by acclaimed filmmaker Lilly Rivlin revisits Broner's richly engaged political, artistic and spiritual life through archival photos, video footage spanning several decades, and interviews with family and friends, including Gloria Steinem, Bella Abzug, Grace Paley, and other famous feminists. Drawing its title from one of Broner's celebrated novels, the film helps explore the intersection of feminism and religion, and helps answer the question, is there room for feminism and religious tradition in a traditionally male dominated space?

Reviews

- "Rivlin captures Broner's big heart, wildly inventive mind, compassion and her loud, infectious, frequent laugh. Her strong storytelling skills are also evident..." - The Jewish Weekly
- "What a deeply fascinating and heartfelt portrait of Esther. It's an important documentation that brilliantly captured a complex multi layered woman who dares challenging the norms of her time." - Ariel Jordan, Filmmaker/Writer
- "The film is a gift, of a time, documented so we can feel again how fresh it was to be in the presence of passionate women creating beauty/power/community, feeling it rise out from under." - Myra Shapiro, Poet

FEMINIST: STORIES FROM WOMEN'S LIBERATION

By Jennifer Lee

Structured as a personal journey of rediscovery by filmmaker Jennifer Lee, this documentary brings the momentous first decade of secondwave feminism vividly to life. Its trajectory starts with the earliest stirrings in 1963 and ends with the movement's full blossoming in 1970—from the Presidential Commission's report on widespread discrimination against women and publication of Betty Friedan's Feminine Mystique up through radical feminists' takeover of the Statue of Liberty and Friedan's calls for a women's strike for equality. A wealth of period footage captures landmark events and the pivotal roles of the National Organization for Women (NOW), the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission (EEOC), the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), Redstockings, and other organizations. Thirty-five diverse interviewees, including rank-and-file activists along with well-known feminists Betty Friedan, Frances M. Beale, Gloria Steinem, Robin Morgan, Ti-Grace Atkinson, and others, share memories of the period as well as issues and challenges that still resonate today. A great introduction to Women's Studies and critical viewing for historians and academics interested in feminism, activism and the Women's Movement.

REFLECTIONS UNHEARD: BLACK WOMEN IN CIVIL RIGHTS

By Nevline Nnaji

Where do black women activists fit into the epochal struggles for equality and liberation during the 1960s and 70s? This feature-length documentary unearths the story of black women's political marginalization—between the male-dominated Black Power movement and second wave feminism, which was largely white and middle class—showing how each failed to recognize black women's overlapping racial and gender identities.

Archival footage and in-depth interviews with former members of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), SNCC's Black Women's Liberation Committee, the Black Panther Party, Third World Women's Alliance, and the National Black Women's Feminist Organization reveal how black women mobilized, fought for recognition, and raised awareness of how sexism and class issues affected women of color within and outside The Black Power Movement and mainstream feminism. Prominently featured activists include Frances Beale, Angela Davis, Kola Boof, Nikki Giovanni, Rosemary Mealy, Judy Richardson, Gwendolyn Simmons, Deborah Singletary, and Eugenia Wiltshire. Required viewing for Women's Studies, African American Studies, and students of the Civil Rights Movement.

Reviews

- "Nnaji's film is a compelling and timely portrayal of the discrimination that black feminists endured during the American civil rights struggle..." - Feminist Perspectiv
- "As many young Black women begin to explore feminist works by noted women of color, this film is a valuable and important narrative that's been added to the discourse." - Tiff Jones, Coffee Rhetoric
- "The ways in which it touches upon the experiences of black women in relation to the masculinist Black Power movement as well as the emerging white middle-class feminist movement, are brilliant and incisive." - Elaine Castill, Author

WOMEN'S STUDIES

ANITA

Director: Freida Mock

An entire country watched transfixed as a poised, beautiful African-American woman in a blue dress sat before a Senate committee of 14 white men and with a clear, unwavering voice recounted the repeated acts of sexual harassment she had endured while working with U.S. Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas. That October day in 1991 Anita Hill, a bookish law professor from Oklahoma, was thrust onto the world stage and instantly became a celebrated, hated, venerated, and divisive figure. She has become an American icon, empowering millions of women and men around the world to stand up for equality and justice.

Against a backdrop of sex, politics, and race, ANITA reveals the intimate story of a woman who spoke truth to power. Directed by Academy Award-winning filmmaker Freida Mock, the film is both a celebration of Anita Hill's legacy and a rare glimpse into her private life with friends and family, many of whom were by her side that fateful day 22 years ago. Anita Hill courageously speaks openly and intimately for the first time about her experiences that led her to testify before the Senate and the obstacles she faced in simply telling the truth. Anita Hill's graphic testimony was a turning point for gender equality in the U.S. and ignited a political firestorm about sexual misconduct and power in the workplace that resonates still today.

Reviews

- "ANITA is an important historical document about an event that prompted a larger cultural conversation about sexual harassment. But, perhaps more important, it conveys Ms. Hill's journey from an accuser alone to an activist who shares with, and listens to, others." - The New York Times
- "This intelligent and comprehensive documentary not only conveys the genuine nature of Hill herself, but also recreates the national sensibility of the time, an era when sexual harassment in the workplace was not yet a national concern... [a] thoughtful and quietly powerful film." - The Hollywood Reporter
- "A true hero of our time!" - Indiewire's Women and Hollywood
